

DIG FOR BODIES ON MARX FARM

Men with Spades Seeking for More Victims of the Aged Connecticut Farmer Accused of Slaying Farm Hand.

OLD MAN SUSPECTED OF OTHER CRIMES.

Young Wife of the Accused Is Held as Accomplice—Police Believe that She Aided Him in His Work of Killing.

NORWICH, Conn., Aug. 30.—Gershon B. Marx, old, feeble, with a high-pitched whining voice and cringing manner, looked little like the man who, according to the police, is guilty of wholesale murder. This old farmer, who is accused of killing men who worked for him by smothering in their skulls with an axe while they slept, and then cutting up their bodies and burying them in the woods about his home, has a weak face and bent figure, and when a man speaks to him kindly he will seize the man's hand and endeavor to kiss it. His eyes are small and sharp, his lips thin, and the lines about his mouth indicate that he is cruel and selfish, and his chin protrudes, indicating determination.

This man, who was at first accused of the murder of Joseph Pavoli, whose dismembered body was found buried in the cellar of his house, and who now is accused of the murder of Paul Parker, also found dismembered and buried in the woods on a farm he formerly occupied near Colchester, and who is suspected of murdering several other persons, has been a puzzling study to the jailers since he was brought to the prison.

Prisoner Didn't Deny It.

When told that Parker's body had been found and that there was every reason to believe that he had killed Parker the old man whined, but did not make answer.

In another cell in the prison is Mrs. Marx, the aged man's thirty-year-old wife. This woman is accused of being an accomplice in the murders. For a time after her arrest she feigned insanity, but her acting was poor. It was readily seen that she was playing a part for effect. To appear insane the woman neglected her fourteen-month-old child until the prison officials took it from her. There are four Marx children of this last wife and twenty-four others, of three other wives the accused murderer has had. The last four children were with him in the little farmhouse when he was arrested. Three of them were sent to the county poor-house, and the baby was allowed to go to prison with the mother. Then she neglected it and it was taken from her. That Parker was murdered in exactly the same way Pavoli was murdered has been established by an autopsy made by Medical Examiner Grady and Coroner Brown. It was found that his skull had been crushed in, having been struck on the forehead with a blunt instrument, supposed to have been an axe. Then the body was mutilated.

Three Other Crimes Suspected.

The finding of Parker's body gives the police good reason to suspect that at least three other persons besides Parker and Pavoli were done to death in the Marx home. One of these was a peddler of jewelry who called at the house to sell some of his wares. The man was never seen afterward, and it is now charged that Marx was seen with some of the jewelry later.

Then an unknown woman called at the Marx house, and never was she seen again.

A boy who was known only as Palo also made the Marx house his home, until he suddenly disappeared, and he also is believed to have been beaten to death and buried.

So confident are the police that these three persons were killed in the home of Marx that to-day every inch of his one hundred acre farm at Colchester is being gone over. Men with shovels, spades and hoes are digging under trees and fence corners. The foundations of the farm and house have been dug into.

Formerly Lived in Paterson.

When Marx went to Colchester about five years ago, he said his former home had been in Paterson, N. J. He said the young woman who bore his name was his fourth wife and that he was the father of twenty-eight children. By the last wife he has had four children, the eldest is about seven years old. Marx's first holding then was a farm of 100 acres, which had been unoccupied; really deserted, for some years. He was in partnership in this venture with a friend. He expended about $200 in repairs, and there he remained until about two years ago, when he sold out his share of the farm to his partner. When he took the farm on which he lived when Pavoli disappeared and he died. It was about two miles from Colchester, and was about the same size as his other farm. Its price was $500, but Marx paid $70 on account, and he has not given another dollar to the owner.

WORLD'S FAIR PAYS.

Management Will Not Need $1,000,000 Applied For.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 30.—Announcement of the World's Fair management that the $1,000,000 loan applied for more than a month ago to be used in case of emergency will not be needed. It is stated that revenue to the World's Fair has exceeded expectations and the total daily receipts, in round numbers, amount to about $100,000.

According to the statement of President Francis, the cost of maintaining and operating the exposition, including the Government loan payment, is $60,000 a day, in which event, based on the conservative estimate, the exposition has a net revenue of $40,000 each day.

AMERICAN CHEERS AT IRISH LEAGUE

President Finerty's Reference to Part Played by Russian Warships Here During Civil War Evokes Enthusiasm.

ANNUAL CONVENTION DRAWS GREAT CROWD.

Ireland's Victories Won by Statesmanship, Says Speaker—Land Act Made Possible by Irish in America.

The side of the Russian-Japanese war that the Irish-Americans sympathized with was indicated during the speech of John F. Finerty, President of the United Irish League of America, at the opening of the second annual convention of the league in Lexington Opera-House to-day. His reference to the part the Russian warships played in steaming into New York and San Francisco harbors at a period of the civil war when the outlook was black for the Union was greeted with storms of applause.

Anticipation was exceeded in the success of the convention. There were delegates from all over the United States and Canada in larger numbers than attended the first convention. John Redmond, leader of the Irish party in the House of Commons, and his associates, Capt. A. J. C. Donelan, Patrick O'Brien and Conor O'Kelly, were given a great reception when they appeared on the stage.

The hall was decorated in Irish and American flags and the balconies were crowded. For blocks around Fifty-eighth street and Third avenue, there were Irish flags in windows and hundreds of persons in the neighborhood wore knots of green ribbon or shamrocks in their button holes.

The convention song of the United Irish League was sung to the tune of "John Brown's Body Lies Mouldering in the Clay." Here are the first two verses:

Oh, bless the Great Jehovah for the triumph of to-day.
The joy of this convention will for all the Come, stand aside, ye traitors, and ye craves clear the way.
For we are marching on!

Chorus:
Glory, glory to old Ireland,
Glory, glory to old Ireland;
Glory, glory to old Ireland,
For right is marching on!

From the north and from the south land,
We are gathered here in union, and as friends of the oppressed,
We demand that Ireland's grievances be speedily redressed.
Or we'll be marching on!

Victories Won by Statesmanship.

Mr. Finerty, after recounting what had been done by the League in the past two years, announced that the Irish members of Parliament who are here to attend the convention do not come as beggars, but to report gratifying progress. He spoke of the long struggle of Ireland for independence and said that for the first time in centuries the outlook for a national existence was doing itself. "I want to have achieved in the past two years," said Mr. Finerty, "has not been achieved by force of arms, but by the power of the pen and the power of the press. Our victories have been won without the firing of a gun or the loss of a man. Statesmanship has accomplished the opening of the way to freedom for Ireland, and it is upon statesmanship that we must depend for what we hope to obtain in the future."

Cause for Gratitude to Russia.

"The Irish remember their foes, but they also remember their enemies. In the dark days of '21, when England was doing her utmost to disrupt the Union, the Irish remember what nation it was that sent ships into the harbors of New York and San Francisco, thus giving notice to the world that the independence of the United States must not be interfered with by any outside power. That action of Russia had its effect in making the United States the friend of the Irish people. The Irish people of the United States are to render the grand assistance they were rendered to the cause. Let us not forget it."

Jeremiah J. O'Connor, of Elmira, was called on by the speaker. He said the journey he held a reception and thanked all by his wit and graciousness.

NEGRO TAKEN FROM JAIL AND LYNCHED

Captured by Kentucky Posse After Attack on Girl and Later Seized by Mob—Body Thrown Into River.

HICKMAN, Ky., Aug. 30.—Joseph Bumpas, a negro who attacked Miss Topsy Clay, fifteen years old, a white girl, in this county, was captured by a posse of citizens and lodged in jail. He was taken from jail by a mob last night and lynched.

14 ARRESTED FOR SPITTING.

One Fined $2 and Others Sharply Reprimanded.

Fourteen prisoners were assigned today on the charge of spitting on the sidewalk, elevated railroad platforms, decks of ferry-boats and other places, before Magistrate Plummer, in Essex Market Police Court.

One was fined $2 and the other thirteen were reprimanded with sharp reprimands from the Magistrate.

David B. Hill says he is going to retire from politics Jan. 1.

BLAME FIRE LOSS ON MACKAY'S MAN

Roslyn People Say the Millionaire's Lodge-keeper Refused to Allow a Hose to Be Run to Hydrant on Estate.

ROSLYN, L. I., Aug. 30.—The keeper of the lodge at the entrance to the estate of Clarence Mackay at this place is blamed by the local firemen for the loss of about $25,000 worth of property here early to-day. The firemen claim that the keeper refused to allow them to carry a line of hose into the estate, where there is a hydrant, so that they could get water to extinguish the flames which were raging about a quarter of a mile away.

They say they carried a line of hose about 2,000 feet to the lodge at the entrance of the estate. They pulled the hose up to a big tank, but they claim that by this time the fire had gained such headway that they were unable to reach it, and the result was a loss of $25,000.

The fire started in the barn of D. L. Pearson, who is the Highway Commissioner of the town of North Hempstead. Mr. Pearson says the fire was caused by a lamp which was left in the barn and must have dropped a light of some kind in the hay mow.

The guests in the hotel were forced to run in their nightclothes, and the hotel and barn were soon destroyed. The residence of Pearson next caught fire, and the flames spread to the town lock-up, and all these buildings were burned.

The fire was sent to East Williston, Sea Cliff and Port Washington, but the departments from these places arrived several other buildings were on fire and they could do little but save the surrounding property.

Town Indignant.

The flames spread to the residence of Mrs. William Noon and to that of James Trainor, used as a small hotel. The former Hotel, owned by James Joyce, and the Cottage Hotel, owned by H. L. Atwood, also caught fire, and from there the flames jumped to the Windsor Hotel, owned by John Dusek. The latter place was only scorched, while the other were badly damaged by the fire. In each of the houses there were from eight to ten guests, but they had been warned of their danger and had time enough to get their clothing before the flames reached them.

There were five horses in Pearson's stable, and Mr. Pearson and a hackman, William Strupp, had their hands and faces badly burned in trying to rescue these animals from the fire. They succeeded in getting two of them from the building, but they were so badly burned that they had to be shot. Four of the horses belonged to the Long Island Express Company and the other was the property of Mr. Pearson.

There is great indignation in the town over the alleged treatment received by the firemen at the hands of the lodge-keeper. The fire could have been extinguished with a trifling loss, if it had not been for the refusal to secure water sooner than they did, and the lodge-keeper is blamed.

Winslow Clark, agent for the Mackay estate, denies that the firemen were refused admittance to the estate or that they were not allowed to use the hydrant at the gate. He says that as a matter of fact the hydrant in question is outside of the lodge gates, and that the firemen are welcome to use it any time they wish.

He holds that the trouble was that the firemen apparently did not understand how to handle the hydrant, which has a double shut-off.

Mr. Clark adds that he heard that the firemen were unable to get a supply of water from the hydrant this morning, and he asked Supt. Donnelly about the matter.

FIREMAN'S ARM PARTLY TORN OFF

Brave Fellow, in Gallant Work of Rescue, Is Cut by Broken Glass and Nearly Bleeds to Death.

In rescuing two score women and children from the burning tenement at No. 190 Broome street to-day a number of firemen were badly hurt. Fireman Joseph Engles, of Engine Company No. 11, had his right arm almost severed at the shoulder by broken glass and was bleeding to death when he was rushed to the Gouverneur Hospital in a chief's wagon.

A policeman passing the corner saw the flames pouring out of the hallway and turned in an alarm. He also summoned aid from the Eldridge street station and set about untangling the yelling mass of women and children jammed on the fire-escape.

As fast as the policemen pulled down those on the lower platforms those above plunged down kicking and fighting. The fire worked its way rapidly toward the windows letting out on the first landing of the fire-escape, and when the firemen arrived and got their ladders up many were in immediate peril of being burned.

Fireman Joseph Engles, who was one of the first to go up the ladders in the rescue work, fell as he broke the glass in a window, and the upper part of his arm caught on the broken glass and was almost torn from his body.

He paid no attention to his injury, however, until he had taken two children down his ladder and deposited them safely on the ground. Then it was noticed that blood was fairly spurting from the severed arm. In a few moments he was so faint from the loss of blood that he fell unconscious to the pavement.

The Chief of the Third Battalion picked him up and carried him into a drug store. There ropes were wound about the flesh above the arm and in a tourniquet and an ambulance was summoned from Gouverneur Hospital.

Hurried to Hospital.

All efforts to stanch the flow of blood failed, however, and it was seen that immediate medical aid was necessary to save the fireman's life. Therefore it was deemed inadvisable to wait for an ambulance, and the man was carried to the chief's wagon and driven at top speed to the hospital. The surgeons said that there was but a slender chance for the fireman's recovery.

When the firemen succeeded in getting all the panic-stricken women and children down from the fire-escapes and were able to devote all their attention to the flames the blaze had spread to the upper floors and was burning fiercely on the roof.

It was necessary to carry hose up to neighboring roofs and then go down to the hydrant turned the shut-off. In this way the fire was prevented from spreading beyond the fourth floor.

GEN. HASCALL DEAD.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Gen. M. S. Hascall died to-day after a long illness at his home in Oak Park. He graduated from West Point in the class with Gen. Phil Sheridan and took part in many battles during the Civil War.

and he asked Supt. Donnelly about the matter.

From the latter he learned that the firemen when they coupled their hose to the hydrant turned the shut-off. The whole was around, so that it was eased when they supposed that it was open.

Mr. Clark says that the whole trouble lay in the ignorance of the firemen as to the proper way in which to handle the hydrant.

LID IS ON TIGHT, M'ADOO INSISTS

Police Commissioner, Back from Vacation, Denies Magistrate Pool's Assertion that Town Is Wide Open.

Commissioner McAdoo returned to his office to-day after a month's vacation in New England. He spent a week in Boston and made a careful examination of the screws that secure the Hub's lid. Some of these screws he noticed ran in queer grooves. He did not particularly approve of the one that allows a policeman to arrest a citizen for intoxication if the aroma of alcohol is discernible in the breath.

Notwithstanding all the singular and ingenious screws used to hold down the Beantown lid, Mr. McAdoo announces that New York is just as tight, if not tighter, than Boston. He said he did not see how his friend Magistrate Pool could assert that the town is wide open.

"I understand," said the Police Commissioner, "that Judge Pool declares the town is wide open and that he has charged a number of men arrested for freedom of the ground that the freedom to obtain liquor was a great temptation. The Magistrate's friends may believe him, but my friends will believe me when I say that the lid is on tight and that the town is not wide open."

"Why, when I got back to New York last night I made a trip about town and found it quieter than I found Boston, and I wouldn't call Boston a noisy town."

ELOPED WITH GIRL AND IS ARRESTED

Young Man Brings Sixteen-Year-Old Sweetheart to City and Marries Her, but Stern Father Objects.

Young Lochinvar did not come out of the West yesterday because the road from New York to Poughkeepsie runs in a north-west by east direction and Herman Schwartz, twenty-six years old, of No. 330 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, started from Manhattan. The girl who was at the other end of Lochinvar's ride was Miss Louise Gennerich, sixteen years old, blond, and extremely pretty, whose father is a prosperous tinsmith of 600 Canal street.

It all came out in the Jefferson Market Police Court to-day, when Henry Gennerich, the father of the bride, appeared before Magistrate Burrow, and asked that Schwartz be held for abduction, pending proceedings to annul the marriage. The couple, it is said, have lived together as man and wife for several days.

Miss Gennerich has been the recipient of Schwartz's attentions for some time, and her parents did not approve it, it is said. So the girl was taken to Poughkeepsie, Schwartz pursued the girl, bundled her into a train headed for Manhattan, and before the parental pursuers had discovered the situation, the couple were married by Rev. Francis Schneider, of 208 Second avenue, who has a reputation as a "marrying parson."

The parents and some fifty sympathizers were in court when Lochinvar, or Schwartz, was arraigned. Detective "Sam" Prince, of the District Attorney's office, was on hand and asked that the prisoner be held. Schwartz waived examination and was held for trial in $5,000 bail, which was not furnished.

CALLS POLICE TO FIGHT M'CARREN

Deputy Fire Commissioner Doyle, Representative of Murphy in Brooklyn, Charges McCarrenites With Colonizing.

Deputy Fire Commissioner William A. Doyle, leader of the Seventh Assembly District, Brooklyn, had this to say about Senator Patrick McCarren and his methods to-day:

"I appealed to the Police Commissioner for men to go down to Coney Island to prevent fraud. I found out that the McCarrenites have been sending floaters in blocks of eight and ten to Coney Island. As a result of my appeal to the Commissioner twenty-five detectives who know the east side of New York like a book were detailed there. As the floaters are from the east side these detectives will be able to prevent all frauds. The same thing is being done in the Fourteenth District, Williamsburg. These are the only places where the floaters are being sent, I believe."

"How about the alleged frauds in the Eleventh and Seventeenth?" was asked.

"Those charges were made by McCarren to offset the present charges which they knew would come the moment they began operations. I will carry the Seventh by 1,200 or 1,500 majority. The Second, Fourth, Sixth, Seventh, Ninth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth are safe for me, and in the Tenth, Thirteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first I have a fighting chance."

DEAD IN THE RIVER.

A man of middle age and medium height, with brown hair and sandy mustache, was found drowned off Pier in Jersey City, to-day. A painter's easel was tattooed on his left arm, while the name "A. Vanderdecken" was engraved on the case of a gold-filled watch found on him.

The body was taken to the Morgue.

True Preventive of Hay Fever.

Hyomei Destroys Germs of the Disease.

Do not try to cure hay fever by dosing the stomach. Breathe Hyomei and in that way the medication will reach the minutest air cells in the nose, throat and lungs, soothe and heal the irritated mucous membrane, and prevent and cure all hay fever troubles.

This remarkable discovery makes it possible for any one to breathe air at home which is almost identical with that of the Adirondacks or White Mountains or other resorts where hay fever sufferers go to escape their trouble.

If Hyomei has not been used until the disease has begun, it is necessary to use it at least half a dozen times daily, and Hyomei Balm should be rubbed into the nostrils both morning and night. This treatment will relieve at once and will effect a cure in nearly every case.

Hegeman & Co., 200 Broadway, will sell an outfit of Inhaler, Hyomei and medicine dropper for $1.00 and agree to refund the money if the treatment does not give satisfaction.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF EX-MAYOR A BRIDE

Miss Adeline B. Tiemann Married to William Arthur Howell, Wall Street Lawyer, Formerly of New Orleans.

Miss Adeline B. Tiemann, granddaughter of Daniel F. Tiemann, who was Mayor of New York from 1878 to 1880, was married this afternoon in St. Michael's Episcopal Church, Ninety-ninth street and Amsterdam avenue to William Arthur Howell, Rev. John Peters, D.D., officiated.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Tiemann, the grandmother of the bride, the ceremony was very quiet. Dr. John Tiemann, the bride's brother, gave her away.

Mr. Howell is a Wall street lawyer. He is a native of New Orleans and belongs to one of the leading families of that city. Since his arrival in New York he has been very successful in his profession.

DIED AT BEDSIDE OF SICK DAUGHTER

(Special to The Evening World.) NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 30.—Mrs. Margaret Sweeney, sixty-four years old, of No. 37 President street, East Newark, dropped dead to-day as she was about to try and comfort her daughter, Mary, twenty years old, who is dying.

Mrs. Sweeney was in the best of health, but much worn out by the months of care during her daughter's illness. As she reached her daughter's bedside the latter was unconscious, and it is believed that her mother believing her dead, was overcome with grief.

Within a few feet of the unconscious girl the aged mother was found dead on the floor by another daughter of the woman who went to inquire as to the sick girl's condition.

The scene was pathetic in the home, when the second daughter was overcome and fell in a faint over the lifeless form of her mother. Neighbors all they could to alleviate the sufferings of the sick daughter, who was revived but not told of her mother's death.

FEMALE WEAKNESS IS OFTEN DUE TO CATARRH.

A Grateful Girl Restored to Health After Years of Suffering.

Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrh Wherever Located.

Women all over the United States recommend Peruna. They praise it as a remedy particularly adapted to their peculiar ailments. But they do not stop there. They recommend it as a family medicine; they give it to their little children. They say they would not be without it in their homes.

Not a Cure-All.

What then, is Peruna? Is it a cure-all? No such claims are made for it. Peruna cures catarrh and that is all it does cure. But many ailments called by countless different names are dependent upon catarrh, that is catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membrane lining some organ of the body. Hence Peruna cures catarrh of the pelvic organs (female weakness), with the same surety as it cures catarrh of the nose or throat, or the many other catarrhal ailments of children.

Thousands of women suffer from pelvic catarrh and catarrhal nervousness and don't know it. If you feel fagged out, begin at once taking Dr. Hartman's Peruna. It will relieve your catarrhal affliction and all your organs will be restored to health. Buy a bottle to-day, as it will alleviate your case.

If one were to ask all the nervous, fretted, fagged-out women who work day after day, hardly able to keep on their feet—if a person were to ask them what their trouble was, one would say dyspepsia, another nervous prostration, another female weakness and so on.

The fact is, however, that they nearly all have the same disease, and that disease is chronic catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peruna does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effects.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually cures catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are multitudes of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

Write to Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio, for free medical advice. All correspondence is held strictly confidential.

MISS NELLIE SOUTH.

Miss Nellie South, late of Manchester, Eng., writes from 88 Prince Arthur St., Montreal, Can., as follows:

"Peruna has made a wonderful change in my life. It has brought me health and happiness. Since my seventeenth year with female complaint and irregularities, my general health suffered, I had pains in my back and lower limbs, my eyes were dim, and I became morose and unreasonable. Mother sought the advice of our family physician, who prescribed for me, but I grew no better under his treatment. I then read of Peruna and procured a bottle. That one bottle was worth more than all the doctor's medicine I had taken previously. I felt so much better and kept on taking it for six weeks with marked improvement in my health. I cannot express my gratitude. Peruna has been a great blessing to me."—Miss Nellie South.
